Introduction

Our speaker today has been training and publicly speaking for 26 years. He's delivered hundreds of presentations to military officers in the U.S. Army, athletes, high school students, business leaders, and public officials.

A published author and graduate of the United States Military Academy, Erick, travels the country and speaks to organizations and associations on mastering human dynamics. Erick's mission is to motivate business professionals to live life beyond excellence and to dig deeper into the human experience so that his audience will become inspired to pursue significance.

When he's not speaking, he's at home enjoying life in New York with his amazing wife, Alia, his three children, and his Doberman, Onyx.

Please welcome Erick Rheam!
